BATHING FATALITY.

A party, comprising Alfred Wray and his son Frederick, Charles Campbell, and Samuel Bebb, were bathing 'at Woronora,' George's River, three miles above Como, yesterday, when suddenly young Wray, who is 13 years of age, got out of his depth and called out to his father for assistance. Mr. Wray endeavoured to reach him, but being unable to swim failed to do so. Bebb, who was a strong swimmer, started off to the boy's rescue, but the plucky fellow was apparently seized with cramp, and within a second or two disappeared. He rose to the surface, and was grasped by Campbell, who, however, became so exhausted that he had to abandon the effort to get him ashore. Three men in a boat who had witnessed the occurrence then rowed to the spot, and diving into the water succeeded in rescuing the boy. All attempts to recover the body of Bebb were, however, unavailing. The deceased was a frenchpolisher, residing at Frederick-street, St. Peters
